Pastured Broiler Field Survey

In partnership with our hatchery, we will be participating in a Field Survey using 3 types of broiler chickens. We are able to pass on a discounted price to you for participating!

We will be raising three different meat chicken breeds this season, and comparing vigor, forage capabilities, growth rates and, inevitably, flavor improvements. We invite you to join us in this survey by ordering some of each and giving us your feedback through the season as to which birds you find to be the most desirable as far as cooking, flavor, meatiness and texture. Here are the breeds included.

White Broiler/Roasters: White Cornish cross; these birds are plump, large breast meat, fast growing and slow moving due to large body. (This is pretty much the standard chicken at the grocery store, except ours are pastured with no additives).

Ready in 8 to 10 weeks

Colored Slow-Grow Broilers: A hearty, heritage-type broiler, grows slower than the Whites, but has much better foraging habits and abilities. Slightly smaller breast meat, more flavorful birds.

Ready in 10 to 14 weeks.

NEW I'll call them "50s" Broilers: Offered brand new this year from our hatchery, these birds are a cross between the two above, planning to capitalize the best traits of both. Larger and faster growing than the Colored, more flavorful and better foragers than the Whites.

Ready in 9 to 12 weeks.

WHAT TO DO: It's easy! Order some of each by indicating on the attached form how many of each you wish to order, total your deposits due, and sending to us! Participation is NOT required, you may order only one variety if you wish. You can still experiment and try the different varieties after the pre-order date while available, but will pay the high price tad more. So order yours today!

Thank you for participating!

Don't forget to pre-order your Holiday Turkey, and try some Guinea Hens!
